

Market Regulations

These regulations govern the operation, administration, and management of Green City Market (GCM). These regulations are in place to ensure a successful and safe market experience for all. Regulations also ensure vendor compliance with Green City Market's City of Chicago, Chicago Park District, and Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events permits, as well as federal and state food safety standards. GCM will implement and enforce all regulations pertaining to the operation of the Market. Vendors who violate any regulations will be subject to an immediate review of eligibility to participate in the market program as violations have the potential to put the entire market program at risk. GCM may modify these Market regulations at any time, and take any reasonable action to enforce them up to and including removal from the market. GCM requires all participants in the Market to be members in good standing as set forth in these regulations.

COMMUNITY COMMITMENT

All vendors and any staff or representatives of vendors agree to read, understand, and abide by the market's Community Commitment.

GENERAL GUIDELINES FOR FARMERS

- A farm may be a sole proprietorship, partnership, or corporation.
- Farmers must have one of our approved third-party sustainability certifications of their growing or animal husbandry practices to reflect their commitment to the Market's mission. A list of approved certifications can be found on Green City Market's website, here. Farmers who are in pursuit of third-party certification or have extenuating circumstances that prevent a third-party certification should contact farmersupport@greencitymarket.org to discuss your farm's unique situation.
- Farmers may not use the term "organic" at GCM unless their farm is certified organic by a USDA accredited third-party certifier and the farmer has submitted the current certification documentation with their GCM application.
- While we do not accept farmers who use hydroponic farming exclusively; vendors may use hydroponic farming to supplement their product. Hydroponic production must utilize nutrients that are OMRI approved for organic production. Farmers/vendors utilizing hydroponic growing techniques will be subject to approval on a case-by-case basis.
- The resale of agricultural products is strictly prohibited, unless the product(s) are approved by GCM as an associate vendor.

ROLE OF READY-TO-EAT & PREPARED FOOD AT GCM

The offerings at prepared food vendor stands should be curated, limited, and change with the seasons.

- Ready-to-eat and prepared food items must source ingredients directly from producers within the four-state region of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan who possess an approved sustainability certification.
 - Sourcing from wholesalers or other retailers from this region are not acceptable

 - This includes vegetables, fruits, cheese, eggs, herbs, proteins, grains, bread, buns for sandwiches, sauces, jams, preserves, pickles, etc.
 - Non-local oils, spices, vinegars, and other pantry staples are allowable as ingredients in prepared food but will not necessarily be approved for sale as stand-alone products.

 - Secondary and supporting ingredients that are not available from GCM growers and producers shall be credibly sourced ethically, organically, and sustainably.

- GCM requires that all ready-to-eat food vendors be involved in the production of the products they intend to sell. Vendors must create the recipe for the product; oversee and guide the production of the product in the processing facility or kitchen; and ensure the safety and quality of the product.
- All ready-to-eat and prepared food vendors must understand and comply with all cottage food, county, and state and health department regulations.
- Individual recipes shall highlight or feature seasonal ingredients sourced from GCM growers and producers, and these ingredients shall be highlighted or used in a substantial way.
 - E.g. blueberries should be used during blueberry season; apples should be used during apple season. etc. Note: Garnishes, such as a single blueberry or basil flower placed on top of a pastry does not fulfill this requirement.
- Seasonally-shifted items (jarred, pickled, canned, frozen) are acceptable in ready-to-eat foods when there is no available fresh product.
 - Frozen blueberries can be used in blueberry muffins outside of blueberry season, jarred tomatoes outside of tomato season, etc.
 - All seasonally-shifted items are required to be sourced from GCM growers and producers.
- Individual recipes must be submitted with your application to GCM via the Ingredients List Form and submitted to Manage my Market.
- All recipe ingredients used in products sold at market, and the source for those ingredients, must be listed and available for shoppers to review at market. This includes common ingredients like flour and spices. This is important for the health of your customers and your business' liability.
- Common allergens must be clearly noted on recipes as well as on market displays and/or samples provided at GCM.
- New recipes may be introduced throughout the season and must be submitted via the New Product Application form. Please allow up to two weeks for product review.
- GCM reserves the right to prohibit a vendor from selling product(s) whether or not it has been previously approved.

Note: Vendors and/or anyone representing a vendor's business at GCM are responsible for knowing where their ingredients are grown and/or sourced, production methods, how their products support local agriculture and sustainability, and common allergen information.

FARMERS SELLING READY-TO-EAT AND PREPARED FOODS

A farmer may sell ready-to-eat, prepared or processed goods if the ingredients are sourced from their farm. The farmer may have a third party produce the goods (jams, cider, sausages, cheese, pickled vegetables, salsas, etc.) only if the farmer is: involved in the development of the recipe and responsible for the quality and safety of the end product.

Farmers selling ready-to-eat and prepared foods must meet the following guidelines:

- Farmers must provide the application committee with all required licenses and certificates from the third-party facility/processor, and include ingredient lists for every processed product in their application. Farmers selling ready-to-eat foods, prepared foods, or value-added products must follow the Cottage Food Laws, county, state, FDA and USDA requirements. Vendors are solely responsible for knowing and acquiring all necessary licenses (see "Required Licenses, Certifications & Supporting Documents" section).
- If the majority of the product being sold by a farmer throughout the entire season is a ready-to-eat/prepared/processed food, rather than fresh product or frozen meat, the Applications Committee may require them to be involved in the production (see definition above under "Guidelines, Production & Sourcing Of Ready-To-Eat and Prepared Food Items page 13).
- Farmers selling cider or any other value-added product based on a product from their farm must have their farm product processed by a batch processing method or other method that creates a clearly traceable audit trail from farm product to finished "value added" product. Examples of this documentation must be submitted with the GCM Application.

PRESERVED FOODS

Frozen

Seasonally shifted frozen products are only allowed to be sold by a GCM grower or producer as a way to extend their season and economic sustainability. Seasonally shifted frozen items must be grown by the farmer and processed in a licensed facility.

E.g., Frozen chestnuts may be sold by a chestnut farmer, and frozen fruit may be sold by a fruit grower.

Dried

Although dried fruit and herbs are allowed as secondary ingredients, they should be sourced from the market and dried. Vendors are encouraged to use fresh, seasonal ingredients. No ready-to-eat food vendor is allowed to sell dried fruit mixes or dried herbs "as is." This may only be done by the farmer who produced the original fresh product.

Jarred/Canned

Jarred or canned products must feature ingredients solely sourced from GCM growers and producers.

NON-FOOD ITEMS

Non-food items are only allowed at GCM when they are the direct by-product of the primary agricultural product or practice. For example, soap made from goat milk is allowed if sold by a goat milk producer, or when the goat is utilized in the production of other food products that are also sold at market (E.G.: manure for crops; milk for feed). GCM reserves the right to limit the sale of non-food products.

PRODUCT REQUIREMENTS

All vendor products must:

- Be grown or produced in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, or Wisconsin and reflect Midwest seasonality and/or reflect season extension practices.
- Be reviewed and approved by GCM
- Green City Market is a "producer only" market. This means that farmers may only sell products they have grown on their own land or land that they control, and ready-to-eat and prepared food vendors may sell only food that they have personally created. GCM allows extremely limited exceptions, through the One Time and Associate Vendor policies (see below for explanation of these policies).
- Be of the highest and freshest quality possible.
- Raw, uncooked meats must be held at the correct temperatures in accordance with city and state regulations. Temperature logs must be kept in accordance with city and state regulations and available at market for review.
